STOP TELLING PEOPLE WHAT THEY NEED

Too often when presenting a new product or opportunity, excitement takes over. Our instinct is to tell people, "You need this!" We focus on sharing how wonderful something is for us, but we fail to ignite a genuine desire in others.

Shifting From Telling To Enticing

Let's explore the power of shifting your approach from simply telling people what they need to inspiring them with a compelling narrative that sparks curiosity.

Influence them with emotion: To truly influence with emotion, start by delving into the deepest aspirations and passions of your prospects. Craft your pitch in a way that speaks directly to their dreams and goals, igniting a powerful emotional connection that evokes a genuine interest to be a part of something impactful.

STOP TELLING PEOPLE WHAT THEY NEED

This type of resonance is what separates average pitches from extraordinary ones, making them impossible to resist.

Spark curiosity: Create a sense of intrigue and leave your prospects wanting more. Begin with an attention-grabbing statement, share a surprising fact or statistic, or pose a thought-provoking question that piques their interest. Engage their curiosity by teasing a glimpse of the valuable benefits and results they can expect from your network marketing opportunity. The goal is to compel them to lean in, ask for more details, and take the next step in exploring what you have to offer.

Ignite genuine interest: Showcase the unique aspects of your product or service by clearly communicating the benefits, possibility, and transformation It can offer.

Share success stories, testimonials, or case studies that demonstrate real-life results such as the potential for personal growth, financial freedom, or lifestyle enhancements. The key to this working is igniting their belief and anticipation of this being something extraordinary.

STOP TELLING PEOPLE WHAT THEY NEED

By moving away from the instinct to tell people what they need, you can transform your pitch into a journey that sparks curiosity and ignites genuine desire.

Continue reading as we unveil the remaining secrets in the upcoming chapters, where we'll dive deeper into the art of persuasion and share insider tips to elevate your network marketing pitch to new heights.

Stop tell customers what they need and give them what they want" is a powerful mantra that encapsulates a crucial shift in the approach to pitching. Instead of imposing our own opinions or assumptions about what customers need, it emphasizes the importance of truly understanding their desires, preferences, and pain points. By adopting this mindset, you can create pitches that resonate deeply with your audience and deliver the solutions they genuinely want.

OPEN DOOR:
DON'T PITCH TO A CLOSED DOOR

Secret #2

In the world of network marketing, it's crucial to recognize when a prospect is not ready, we call this a "closed door." It's crucial to avoid the temptation to push your pitch onto unwilling ears.

Let's focus on setting the stage, building rapport, and creating an environment where the door is open to receiving your message.

Open Door Approach

To effectively engage your prospects, it's essential to look for meaningful connections and genuine interactions. Here's how you can achieve this:

Set the Stage: Before diving into your pitch, while it's important to take time to establish a positive and welcoming atmosphere it's vital to steer the conversation in the direction of your opportunity. Just like it's uncomfortable to step into a freezing cold shower, that's how it feels when your pitch comes out of nowhere.

For example, if you are pitching a company based on discount yoga pants, initiate a conversation about exercising. This will naturally open the conversation up to potential workout clothes.

OPEN DOOR: DON'T PITCH TO A CLOSED DOOR

Then before you talk about your offer, bring up the problem you have the solution for. In this case you would go into the frustration of how expensive leggings are which is the perfect open door to this "new" company that has crazy discounts!

Listen and Understand: Rather than pushing your agenda, it's important to listen to their thoughts, questions, and concerns. Too often it's tempting to steamroll the features and benefits of your product or service well, completely ignoring their objections. By being open to their hesitations and catering your offer to their needs, you demonstrate that you care about their success and are not solely focused on making a sale.

Seek Permission: Respectfully ask for permission to share more about your network marketing opportunity. Instead of pushing your pitch onto closed ears, ensure they are open to learning more. Having your prospect say the word "yes" or agree with you is a beautiful beginning to an open door. The more "yeses" you get, the more receptive they are to listen to what you have to offer.

OPEN DOOR:
DON'T PITCH TO A CLOSED DOOR

Remember, a closed door will only lead to resistance and rejection no matter how much you push. By adopting this approach, you create an environment where prospects willingly invite your message in and are more likely to consider your network marketing opportunity.

So, let's open the door to meaningful connections and genuine interactions. As we proceed to secret #3, we'll explore the next secret to mastering the art of pitching your network marketing product or service,

Get ready to build bridges of trust and open doors to success!

Secret #3

UNDERSTAND YOUR AUDIENCE

When it comes to pitching your network marketing opportunity, it's essential to shift your focus from what you love about it to how it can serve your prospects needs. The key question to answer is, "What is the biggest problem my customer suffers from?" By understanding their pain points, you can effectively address their needs and offer a solution that resonates.

For example, let's consider an energy drink. Instead of simply highlighting its low calorie content and great taste, take a moment to identify the problem it solves. Perhaps they experience a mid-afternoon energy slump around 4 PM. By understanding this specific pain point, you can position your energy drink as the solution they need.

DON'T MENTION THE NAME OF THE COMPANY

Secret #4

In the world of network marketing, it's common for companies to insist that you work for them, promoting their brand. However, your best interest lies in positioning yourself as an expert in the industry, thinking of the company as your manufacturer rather than your employer.

To be effective, focus on becoming an expert in the field that aligns with the network marketing products or services. Consider yourself a specialist in your product category. For instance, if you are selling vitamins, introduce yourself as a health and wellness expert offering an organic solution to traditional drugstore vitamins.

Secret #3

UNDERSTAND YOUR AUDIENCE

Paint a vivid picture that brings them to their own conclusion of their suffering and how they need a solution for this problem in their life. By empathizing with their struggle and demonstrating that you understand where they've been, you open the door to presenting your product or service as the solution they've been waiting for.

When you connect with your audience on a deeper level and show them that you have the answer to their specific problem, they will be much more likely to invest in what you have to offer. The focus shifts from promoting features to addressing their pain points and providing a tangible solution that improves their quality of life.

Fun Fact: At times, it's necessary to assist your prospect in recognizing their problem, allowing you to position your product as the ultimate solution.

Get ready to become a pitch magician as we dive deeper into the enchanting realm of network marketing. You are on your way to captivating your audience with powerful solutions and leaving them eager to discover the extraordinary opportunity that lies ahead with your offer.

DON'T MENTION THE NAME OF THE COMPANY

Secret #4

The key to success lies in creating your own personal brand and drawing interest to yourself before introducing the company. By establishing your unique value, you capture the attention and curiosity of new prospects.

This approach allows you to position the network marketing opportunity as an extension of your brand, making it more appealing and intriguing.

Going back to the example of the vitamin company, you are not just a mere "distributor" for the company but a wellness superhero, a holistic guru, or a champion of organic solutions. By creating your own brand and captivating your audience with your unique persona, you'll ignite curiosity and leave them yearning for more.

So, as we eagerly jump into the next chapter, get ready to unleash your charisma and create a buzz that will have everyone asking, "Who is this amazing expert?"

Get ready to make a splash and own your personal brand like a rockstar!

Secret #5

NO MEANS NEVER-ENDING OPPORTUNITY

It's time to adopt the mindset of a "No" collector, not a "No" rejector.

What does this mean?

The word "no" from a prospect is not the end, but rather the beginning of a "Never-ending Opportunity." In fact, it often takes multiple interactions before someone is fully engaged and ready to say "yes."

When faced with a "no," respond with gratitude. This unexpected reaction might puzzle your prospect, but it opens the door for a transformative follow-up. Take the opportunity to express your appreciation and then ask, "What would it have taken for me to receive a 'yes' from you today?" This question invites valuable feedback that can unveil the precise factors or information needed to turn a "no" into a resounding "yes."

Embrace the power of "no" as an invitation for growth and exploration. Collect those "no's" with enthusiasm, knowing that each one brings you closer to a "yes" and uncovers valuable insights.

Secret #5

NO MEANS NEVER-ENDING OPPORTUNITY

Follow-up is the crown jewel of turning a 'no' to a "YES! I'm in!" Maintain a comprehensive database, connect with your prospects on social media, and foster authentic relationships. Avoid the trap of becoming relentless or pushy; instead, prioritize budding rapport. Remember, people gravitate towards those they like, know, and trust. As network marketers, it's crucial to avoid the stereotype of being overbearing and transaction oriented. Focus on creating meaningful connections where the relationship takes precedence over the sale.

As we approach the bonus chapter, get ready to unveil the ultimate secret that will propel your network marketing success to new heights. Prepare yourself for an extraordinary culmination where every "no" becomes a stepping stone towards an unlimited horizon of opportunity!
